

HISTORY OF PHILANTHROPY AT ROM

ROM
Governors

LAYING THE FOUNDATION:
OPENING THE MUSEUM, 1905-1914

1905

Prominent Canadian champions a major museum in Toronto

Sir Edmund Walker, a leading Toronto banker and key member of the Royal Commission on the University of Toronto, advocates for the establishment of a first-class museum as part of a drive to position Toronto as a major international centre.

1906

Early collecting gets underway

Archaeologist and Egyptologist Charles T. Currelly is appointed official collector for the future museum by the University of Toronto. Through his travels, he begins to acquire artifacts that will form the basis of ROM's first collections.

Mr. C. T. Currelly, M.A.

1907

Egyptian excavation sparks donor interest

While excavating in Egypt, Currelly is visited by prominent Torontonians, Sir Edmund Osler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Warren. This visit sparks not only additional support for his work, but a lifelong interest in Currelly's mission to establish a major museum.

1910

Construction of ROM begins

Construction of the Museum's first wing on Philosopher's Walk begins in 1910 and is completed in 1912. Work commences in earnest on the galleries. The Museum's cost, $400,000, is shared by the University of Toronto and the Province of Ontario.

1912

Province of Ontario officially establishes ROM

The Province of Ontario passes the Royal Ontario Museum Act to formally establish the Museum. Five separate museums are created, including Archaeology, Geology, Mineralogy, Paleontology and Zoology, with a total of 20 museum staff. Sir Edmund Walker is appointed first Chairman of the Board.

THE MUSEUM GROWS:
ONTARIO BUILDS ROM'S FIRST EXPANSION, 1914-1933

1914

ROM opens its doors

The Governor General of Canada the Duke of Connaught officially opens the Museum. The main entrance to the Museum is located on Bloor Street. The Museum welcomes nearly 2000 visitors a day in its first four days.

1917

First official patrons group is established

Sir Edmund Walker, Chairman of the ROM Board of Trustees, forms "The Twenty Friends of the Arts." He invites each patron to pledge $500 per year for 10 years to help fund new acquisitions.

1918

ROM begins collecting its world-famous Chinese collection

Charles Currelly meets and befriends George Crofts, a businessman based in China with a passion for Chinese antiquities. Crofts donates and purchases an extraordinary number of artifacts for ROM's collections, including the Ming Tomb and the Chinese Lions.

1924

ROM appoints first official collector of Chinese art

ROM appoints Bishop William White, an Anglican missionary with a keen interest in Chinese art and history, as its official collector in China. Over the next decade he acquires superb artifacts of the Bronze Age and later, three magnificent 13th-14th century Buddhist temple murals, currently on display in the Bishop White Gallery of Chinese Temple Art.

1927

Saturday Morning Club is formed

The Saturday Morning Club for children is launched. Hugely popular, it inspires the growth of ROM's education program. Almost 100 years later, it still attracts hundreds of children a year, making it the longest-running public program at the Museum.

1929

Province of Ontario approves expansion plans

As the collections continue to grow, ROM's need for more space becomes acute. The Province of Ontario agrees to fund the construction of an additional wing.

1931

Construction of a new wing begins during the Great Depression

The expansion of ROM allows the Province to provide much-needed work for the countless unemployed in the early 1930s. All labour and building materials come from Ontario. The only exception is the unique mosaic ceiling in the Rotunda, imported from Italy.

MATURITY AND INDEPENDENCE:
REACHING FOR THE STARS, 1933-1968

1933

New Queen's Park wing officially opens

The new Queen's Park wing opens, more than doubling ROM's size. The Province of Ontario has invested $1.8 million to complete the building, designed in an Art Deco version of the Romanesque Revival style. It becomes one of Toronto's major architectural landmarks.

New Chinese library opens

While in China, Bishop White purchases the H.H. Mu Library with over 40,000 volumes on Chinese art, culture and history. Canada's largest Asian library at the time, this extraordinary resource is made possible through the generosity of donors.

1940ROM receives a transformational gift

Toronto businessman J.H. Fleming bequeaths his ornithological collection of over 30,000 bird specimens. This single donation transforms ROM's zoology collection into one of international stature.

1946ROM's founding Director retires

As the first Director of the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology, Charles Currelly was one of the driving forces behind the creation of the Museum. In his honour, ROM renames the Armour Court the Currelly Gallery.

1957First volunteer group is founded

Twelve dedicated women form the Museum's first Members Volunteer Committee to assist Museum visitors and curators. Today, the Department of Museum Volunteers has a membership of over 437 volunteers who annually provide over 33,000 person-hours, touching nearly every aspect of ROM's activities.

1960ROM establishes first fundraising group for a collection

Louise Hawley Stone, founding member of the Museum's Volunteer Committee, establishes the Bishop White Committee to raise awareness and support for ROM's East Asian collections and library.

1962ROM reaches for the stars

Colonel R.S. McLaughlin, Canadian automobile manufacturer and philanthropist, donates $3.25 million to build and endow the first planetarium in Canada.

ROM'S SECOND EXPANSION:
WITH HELP FROM OUR DONORS, 1968-1982*1968*McLaughlin Planetarium opens

Toronto celebrates the opening of the McLaughlin Planetarium—a state-of-the-art facility for its day—and pays tribute to Col. R.S. McLaughlin, who made it possible. It attracts record crowds, educating and entertaining visitors for the next three decades before closing in 1995, due to provincial budget constraints.

ROM gains independence

Royal Ontario Museum Act of 1968 grants the Museum independence from the University of Toronto. Now self-governed and self-managed, its buildings and collections are held in trust for the people of Ontario.

Rotunda Magazine is launched

A grant from the Laidlaw Foundation allows the Museum to publish Rotunda Magazine, which features articles on curatorial collections and research. In 2007, Rotunda Magazine is renamed ROM Magazine and currently reaches over 30,000 households.

1974

ROM's first blockbuster exhibition opens

The Archaeological Finds of the People's Republic of China opens and immediately draws record crowds—435,000 visitors—to the Museum, making it the first of many blockbuster exhibitions.

1977

Renovation and expansion campaign begins

Outgrowing its space once more, ROM launches a campaign to renovate its existing buildings and to build a new gallery wing and curatorial centre. The Board of Trustees votes to proceed with the $42.5 million project with private and public support.

1980

ROM closes its doors to begin renovation and construction

1981

New Curatorial Centre is completed

ROM opens a new nine-storey Curatorial Centre housing more than five million artifacts and specimens. Superbly designed, it consolidates all curatorial staff, functions, facilities, labs, and libraries under one roof.

A NEW ERA OF GALLERY DEVELOPMENT, 1982-2000

1982

The New Queen Elizabeth II Terrace Galleries Building is completed

ROM re-opens after a closure of 20 months.

1984

Her Majesty the Queen officially opens Terrace Galleries

Although the Museum re-opened, most of the gallery spaces still lack exhibits.

The Hon. A. Edwin Goodman chairs the Gallery Development Campaign

The Campaign raises over $40 million to rebuild ROM's galleries.

ROM establishes the Royal Terrace Circle

The Royal Terrace Circle is launched under the leadership of the Hon.

Edwin A. Goodman to recognize donors who make a minimum pledge of $5,000 over five years to the Terrace Gallery Campaign. The Royal Terrace Circle and the Royal Corporate Circle merge in 1999 to become the Royal Patrons' Circle (RPC).

1986

The Greek and Etruscan galleries open

ROM takes a major step toward rebuilding its galleries with the opening of The Greek World, Early Italy and the Etruscans, and Bronze and Iron Age Europe.

1989

H.H. Levy bequeaths an extraordinary gift to ROM

After donating marvelous objects of East Asian art from his private collections, Herman Herzog Levy leaves a $15 million bequest for the acquisition of Chinese bronzes, jades, ceramics, and sculptures.

1992

ROM Foundation is established

ROM Foundation is created to raise funds for ROM's highest priorities and to guide donors to critical areas of need to support the Museum's collections, research, and programs.

1994

Louise Hawley Stone endows East Asian Art Curatorship

Long-time volunteer and friend Louise Hawley Stone donates $2 million to create ROM's first permanently endowed curatorial position, the Louise Hawley Stone Chair of Far Eastern Art. Other donors will follow suit; ROM now has 13 endowed curatorships and chairs.

1996

First ROM Foundation fundraiser is launched

Fact or Fiction is launched and goes on to successfully raise funds and attract new audiences to ROM for over 20 years.

1997

The Joey and Toby Tanenbaum Gallery of Byzantine Art opens

Thanks to a generous donation and gifts to the collections from Joey and Toby Tanenbaum, more than 300 treasures from the Byzantine Empire go on display. ROM now holds the largest and most significant collection of Byzantine art in Canada.

1998

ROM receives largest cash bequest in its history

A passionate supporter and volunteer for over 50 years, Louise Hawley Stone makes ROM the beneficiary of a nearly $50 million trust—the largest cash bequest ever made to benefit the Museum—to purchase new acquisitions, produce publications related to ROM's collections, and support curatorial positions.

2000

The Christopher Ondaatje South Asian Gallery opens

Through the philanthropic leadership of Sir Christopher Ondaatje, ROM establishes a South Asian Gallery, along with key endowments for a curatorship and programs funded by members of Toronto's South Asian communities. An acquisitions fund is also established to help build the collections.

RENAISSANCE ROM:
INNOVATION AND RESTORATION, 2000–2010

2000

Renaissance ROM project begins

ROM receives an unprecedented donation of artifacts

Joey and Toby Tanenbaum donate over 1800 pieces from their private collection of Chinese, Middle Eastern and Mediterranean antiquities. It is the highest-valued donation of artifacts in the Museum's history.

2002

Provincial and federal governments support Renaissance ROM

Prime Minister Jean Chrétien announces $30 million for Renaissance ROM, matching a previous commitment made by the Government of Ontario.

Hilary M. Weston is announced as Chair of the Renaissance ROM Campaign

2003

The Crystal named in honour of Michael Lee-Chin

Michael Lee-Chin donates $30 million to Renaissance ROM. In appreciation, ROM names its forthcoming landmark addition the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal, and its interior atrium the Hyacinth Gloria Chen Crystal Court in honour of his mother.

Renaissance ROM breaks ground

A colourful groundbreaking ceremony marks the beginning of construction activity for the project. The demolition of the 1984 Terrace Galleries begins.

2004

ROM receives a wonderful surprise on its 90th birthday

Hilary and Galen Weston, along with the Weston Family Foundation, donate $20 million to Renaissance ROM. The gift coincides with ROM's 90th birthday.

ROM Governors is created

ROM Foundation Board re-constitutes itself as ROM Governors.

Renaissance ROM marks completion of Phase I

Renaissance ROM celebrates the completion of its first phase with the opening of 10 new galleries in the newly renovated Heritage Wings, including a new suite of Asian Galleries on display together for the first time in generations.

2005

Steel structure of the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal is complete

Young Patrons Circle launches

With close to 100 members, it is the first philanthropic and social group of its kind in Canada, bringing together young professionals from diverse social and business circles who share an enthusiasm for ROM.

2006

Young Patrons Circle launches PROM

This marks the first cultural fundraising event hosted by a young patron group in Canada.

2007

Michael Lee-Chin Crystal grand opening celebrations

ROM's closest supporters dazzle on the red carpet at The Singular Event on June 1, 2007—the opening gala dinner party for the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal.

On June 2, 2007, over 40,000 visitors flock to see the Architectural Opening and Building Dedication.

First two galleries in the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal open

Thanks to unprecedented support from donors, ROM officially opens the James and Louise Temerty Galleries of the Age of Dinosaurs and the Reed Gallery of the Age of Mammals to the public.

2008

Final four galleries open in the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal

Thanks to the support of donors, the following galleries open: Sir Christopher Ondaatje South Asian Gallery, Wirth Gallery of the Middle East, Shreyas and Mina Ajmera Gallery of Africa, the Americas and Asia Pacific, and The Patricia Harris Gallery of Textiles & Costume.

Teck Suite of Galleries opens to the public

Renaissance ROM celebrates the opening of the Teck Suite of Galleries: Earth's Treasures in December, including the Vale Inco Limited Gallery of Minerals, Gallery of Gems and Gold and the Canadian Mining Hall of Fame Gallery. The $10 million gift from Teck is the largest corporate gift to ROM.

2009

Schad Gallery of Biodiversity opens

Renaissance ROM celebrates the opening of the Schad Gallery of Biodiversity. The $12 million gift from the Schad Foundation is the largest gift from a private foundation to ROM.

2009

Renaissance ROM makes history

In June 2009, ROM officially declares Renaissance ROM one of the most successful cultural fundraising campaigns in Canadian history.

2011

Opening of the Eaton Gallery of Rome, Joey and Toby Tanenbaum Gallery of Byzantium, Joey and Toby Tanenbaum Gallery of Rome and the Near East, and the Galleries of Africa: Nubia

Thanks to the generous support of a contribution from the Government of Canada and the tremendous generosity of Thor and Nicole Eaton, Joey and Toby Tanenbaum, Rudolph P. Bratty and family, and many others, ROM opens a suite of new permanent galleries, reintroducing its visitors to the ancient civilizations of Rome, Byzantium and Nubia.

2014

ROM turns 100

ROM celebrates its Centennial on March 19 with a day of special programs and events. The Love the ROM fundraising campaign is launched in support of the Museum's top priorities.

The Currelly Legacy Society celebrates 20th anniversary

Named after the ROM's first Director of Archaeology and his wife, the Charles Trick and Ada Mary Currelly Society represents a special group of dedicated supporters who have made a future gift commitment to ROM.

The Royal Patrons Circle celebrates 30th anniversary

Thirty years earlier, a small group of ROM supporters started an annual giving program to support the Museum. Today, RPC has over 300 members and raises more than $1 million every year for ROM's highest priorities.

Love the ROM Campaign

ROM friends and supporters contribute over $23.8 million in celebration of ROM's Centennial.

ROM acquires the Kirwin Collection

Thanks to the generosity of a dedicated group of donors, an extraordinary collection of over 21,000 ores and minerals, amassed over 40 years by exploratory geologist Douglas Kirwin, arrives at ROM. It is the largest single acquisition in the history of ROM Earth Sciences.

2017

Dan Mishra South Asia Initiative is launched

A landmark gift of $5 million from philanthropist Dan Mishra establishes a newly endowed curatorial position and funding for exhibitions, public engagement, research, and activities supporting ROM's commitment to South Asian art and culture.

Bishop White Committee Curatorship of Japanese Art & Culture is established

The first endowed position of its kind in Canada is generously established by the Bishop White Committee, a group of long-standing ROM volunteers, who actively enable the Museum to steward and display the largest collection of East Asian art in Canada.

Weston Entrance reopens

On December 12, community leaders and supporters gather at ROM to celebrate the reopening of the Weston Entrance. The fully refurbished and accessible new entrance opens up ROM—both literally and symbolically—to the community.

THE TWENTY-FIRST CENTURY MUSEUM, 2018 - 2028

2018

ROM launches strategic vision for the 21st century

ROM announces a ten-year strategic plan and begins the early stages of a monumental, multi-year fundraising campaign in support of the Museum’s 10-year vision.

Richard M. Ivey Curatorship of Invertebrate Palaeontology is established

With a generous leadership gift from Richard M. Ivey and matching funds from the Louise Hawley Stone Charitable Trust, a newly endowed curatorial position committed to Invertebrate Palaeontology is established at ROM.

Revitalization of Bloor Street Plaza begins

Thanks to generous leadership gifts from Helga Schmidt and Nita and Don Reed, construction begins on the Helga & Mike Schmidt Performance Terrace and the Reed Family Plaza. The project transforms the area into a new and vibrant public gathering space.

Free access to the Daphne Cockwell Gallery dedicated to First Peoples art & culture

The Daphne Cockwell Gallery dedicated to First Peoples art & culture opens free-of-charge to the public. The announcement is part of the Museum’s broader effort to foster greater appreciation of the Indigenous collections it stewards and to support the recommendations of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission report.

ROMCAN celebrates 10 years

With the generosity of donors and in collaboration with 100 community partners across Ontario, ROM’s Community Access Network (ROMCAN) is committed to removing financial, social, and cultural barriers to access for our diverse communities. ROMCAN enables more than 100,000 free visits to the Museum every year.

Willner Madge Gallery, Dawn of Life is Announced

Toronto philanthropists Jeff Willner and Stacey Madge generously commit $5 million for a permanent new 10,000 square foot gallery that will trace the story of life from its earliest beginnings four billion years ago to the emergence of dinosaurs and mammals.

2019

ROM offers free nights at the Museum

ROM announces 3rd Monday Nights Free, which invites visitors to experience the Museum free of charge, one evening per month. The program is made possible by TD Bank Group through its corporate citizenship platform The Ready Commitment, and with the generous support of The Bennett Family Foundation. This popular program continues today as Third Tuesday Nights Free.

Opening of Bloor Street Terrace and Plaza

ROM opens the Helga and Mike Schmidt Performance Terrace and the Reed Family Plaza to the public, offering a new way for visitors to enjoy the Museum. The additions feature a welcoming place to gather with garden-side seating and an open-air space for music, theatre, discussion, and performances. This revitalization project is generously made possible by lead donors Helga Schmidt and her late husband Mike Schmidt, and Nita and Don Reed, along with additional donations from Hatch, Nancy Lockhart and the late Murray Frum, Richard Wernham and Julia West, and Flavia Redelmeier.

Allan and Helaine Shiff Curatorship of Climate Change is established

ROM announces the establishment of the inaugural Allan and Helaine Shiff Curatorship of Climate Change. This critical and timely role, the first of its kind at a major Canadian museum, reflects ROM's commitment to ground-breaking research and innovative public engagement on one of the most relevant topics of our day.

The Allan and Helaine Shiff Curatorship of Climate Change is one of 35 curatorships at ROM and one of seven endowed curatorships to receive matching funds by the Louise Hawley Stone Charitable Trust.

2020

Isabel and Gino Vettoretto Curatorship of North American Archaeology is established

ROM announces the establishment of the Isabel and Gino Vettoretto Curatorship of North American Archaeology. This curatorship reflects ROM's commitment to encouraging greater public engagement with, and appreciation of, North America's rich and diverse cultural heritage, and broadening the institution's stewardship and expertise in this area.

2021

ROM's new Willner Madge Gallery, Dawn of Life is unveiled

Grand in scope and thrilling in experience, ROM's first new gallery in 10 years explores nearly 4 billion years of evolution, from the earliest microbes to the emergence of dinosaurs and mammals in the aftermath of the biggest mass extinction event in history. It is also a testament the power of philanthropy, fuelled by support from over 100 donors who contributed gifts ranging from $10 to $5 million.

ROM announces a major gift in support of Korean Art and Culture

The first ever Curatorship of Korean Art & Culture in Canada is part of a multi-year partnership with the Ministry of Culture, Sports and Tourism of the Republic of Korea. The five-year agreement provides $1 million in funding to support a Curator of Korean Art & Culture—a first at any museum in Canada—as well as funds for new research and public programming.

2022

Nick Mirkopoulos Curatorship of Ancient Greece and Rome is established

Thanks to a generous matched gift from the Mirkopoulos family and the Louise Hawley Stone Charitable Trust, the new curatorship brings greater focus to ROM’s Ancient Greek and Roman collections, and celebrates the rich art and cultural legacies of these civilizations in new and meaningful ways.

Catalyzing ROM’s vision for the 21st century

ROM proudly announces a $50 million donation from the Hennick Family Foundation, marking the largest cash gift of its kind in ROM’s history. Jay and Barbara Hennick’s contribution support a multi-year revitalization plan to transform ROM into an even more welcoming and accessible hub for art, culture, and nature.

ROM Immortal brand launch

In June, ROM debuts a dynamic new brand voice and powerful film that invites audiences to experience the Museum in a whole new way.

Third Tuesday Nights Free returns to ROM

After a two-year pause, ROM relaunches Third Tuesday Night Free, thanks to the generous support of The Bennett Family Foundation and the Temerty Foundation.

L.R. Wilson Curatorship of Canadian Art & Culture is established

Made possible with the generous support of the Wilson Foundation and the Louise Hawley Stone Charitable Trust, the creation of this endowed position builds on ROM’s deeply rooted commitment to Canadian art and culture and the evolving story of Canada.

ROM’s main floor is free all summer

In celebration of Kore 670, a stunning sculpture on loan from Greece, ROM launches a new initiative that gives everyone free access to the main floor of the Museum for the duration of the summer. This experience includes a new pop-up coffee bar, plus free live performances and programming. The initiative is generously supported by the Temerty Foundation.

2023

ROM renovates Catalyst Conference Room

With generous support from ROM Board of Governors Chair Jeff Willner, the newly revitalized Catalyst Conference Room reflects the Museum’s commitment to inclusivity. With enhanced accessibility features, state-of-the-art audio-visual technology, and stylish new furniture, the space serves as a welcoming hub for volunteers, staff, and visitors to gather, share ideas, and foster collaborative endeavours that advance ROM’s strategic vision as a 21st century museum.

