

Shad Gallery of Biodiversity

[Animated ROM logo with bird sounds; zooms in as an pulse sound begins; screen fades to black; Text: Life is Diverse]

[Music begins and plays throughout podcast; Black screen fades to white screen with animated plant and animal specimens streaming towards the camera to reveal text on white screen; Text: Life is inter-Related]

[Zoom in on text; Fade to black screen with animated photos of a small mammal with a nut and an owl with prey in its talons; Zoom in on the specimens until they disappear, revealing black screen with text: Life is at Risk]

[Text fades to red; Screen changes to overall red floral pattern; flowers disappear one by one, revealing a white screen with the text: Thirty Million Species]

[Zoom in on text until it disappears, revealing a black screen with animated plant and animal specimens zooming towards the camera, revealing black screen with white text: One Planet]

[Text zooms forward, revealing black world map on a white background; map zooms forward; Fades to pale blue screen with animated green and black butterflies]

[Butterflies morph into a single, large butterfly; butterfly flutters away, transitioning to exterior view of the Michael Lee-Chin Crystal from Bloor Street; Butterfly flies across the Lee-Chin Crystal]

[Cut to butterfly flying across the Queen's Park Heritage façade and into the central stained glass window of the Rotunda]

[Cut to interior view of the Rotunda; camera follows the butterfly as it flies around the 2nd level of the Rotunda, showing the Rotunda mosaic ceiling to the Schad Gallery of Biodiversity entrance; the entrance is filled with a white screen and animated specimens; Text: On May 16th]

[Zoom in on text; fade to black screen with Schad medallion and text: Nature Takes Over; zoom in on text to transition to white screen; ROM logo fades in; music begins to fade]

[Pulse: Text appears: Schad Gallery of Biodiversity]

[Pulse sound; Text appears: May 16 2009]

[Sound of a tinkling chime; the butterfly flutters across the screen and the Earth Rangers' logo appears]

[Music fades out completely; all text but ROM logo fade to white; Text appears under the logo: Royal Ontario Museum, Toronto, Canada; Podcast ends]