

Daniel N. Argiros

Daniel Argiros has been engaged in the Canadian private-equity sector focused on real estate, infrastructure and renewable energy. He began his career in 1985 with Deloitte in Toronto.

Mr. Argiros joined Corporate Planning Associates, a wealth-advisory group in 1988 where he successfully managed a real-estate investment portfolio, particularly during the 1993 recession. In 1997, Mr. Argiros founded Acanthus Real Estate Corporation, a TSX-listed company focused on real estate across Canada in the multi-unit residential, commercial, senior care, and hospitality sectors. Mr. Argiros ultimately partnered with La Caisse de dépôt et placement du Québec in a privatization of the firm in 2000.

In the same year, Mr. Argiros co-founded Conundrum Capital Corporation, a Canadian private-equity management firm. Conundrum acquired, managed, and sold assets in various real-estate classes, aggregating over $4 billion of assets and deploying institutional capital from top Canadian and international investors. In 2010, he founded Potentia Solar Inc. which capitalized on Ontario's green energy program and focused on the solar rooftop sector in Ontario. Together with its major investor, Power Corporation of Canada, Potentia grew to become Canada's largest solar rooftop developer, owner and operator.

In 2016, Mr. Argiros and Conundrum successfully sold Potentia to its majority shareholder, an affiliate of Power Corporation. In the same year, Conundrum entered into a partnership with Manulife, with Manulife becoming a minority partner in the firm's multi-unit residential real estate portfolio under its Q Management brand.
