

The Royal Ontario Museum (ROM) is Canada's world museum. The ROM is an indispensable resource for building community by nurturing discovery and inspiring wonder. The ROM invites everyone to explore and enjoy extraordinary experiences of science and civilization.

Deputy Director, Engagement

One of the world's leading museums of natural history and world cultures, the ROM is transforming the way in which it works with the public, connects with the community, and addresses the needs of an ever-changing world. Building on its internationally respected collections, exhibitions and research, the ROM seeks to foster a lifelong interest in nature and culture within its audience, providing opportunities to experience and learn in new, participative ways that connect visitors to their world and to each other.

As the founding Deputy Director, Engagement, you will lead initiatives that are fundamental to the realization of the ROM's strategic plan. Reporting to an inspiring Director and CEO, you will lead the Engagement Division, coalescing the communication, programs, galleries, exhibitions, events and activities, and the audience, volunteer, learning and creative teams together to foster meaningful experiences for ROM visitors and audiences. Working across the organization with curators and Managing Directors of the Centres of Discovery, you will transform the ROM into an engagement platform – building an ongoing relationship that connects the Museum's onsite, online and offsite users with its rich collections, research, programs and people. With the ROM team, you will start and continue a conversation with the public that enriches, stimulates learning, and provokes debate and dialogue across multiple platforms.

A visionary leader, you understand how to engage family audiences and the general public with a welcoming, accessible approach. Au courant with research and best practices in visitor and audience engagement, you are a people person who is passionate about encouraging ongoing dialogue and learning. You have a talent for creating a positive, dynamic environment, and your leadership experience encompasses communications and marketing, visitor experience and audience insight, education and outreach. Bring your intellect, energy, credibility, curiosity, and passion for collections and research to ignite a team that is ready to engage.
